FIGHT IN MONTANA FOR CLARK'S SEAT

Five Candidates Now in the Field for Senate Honors.

BATTLE TO WIN LEGISLATURE

Republicans Now in Control and Looking to Increase Majority at Fall Election.

The political situation in Montana relative to a successor to Senator Willian A. Clark, whose term of office expires on March 3, next, is being waged in local Montana circles with much force, since Mr. Clark's announcement that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself has been made known. Already there are five candidates in the Beld; two Republicans and three Demo-It is possible that there will also be an independent candidate. H. L. Frank, of Butte, a prominent mine operator and friend of Senator Clark; Joseph H. Toole, present governor, and a former Delegate to Congress, and W. G. Conrad, a banker and stock raiser of Great Falls, are the Democratic aspirants. Their success depends upon the result of the coming fall election,

The two Republican candidates are Lee Mantle, of Butte, and Joseph M. Dixon, of Missoula. They are both comparatively young men, although Dixon is many years the younger of the two Mantle has been well known in natio councils for many years, while Dixon has come into prominence but recently.

Mantle a Montana Pioneer.

Mr. Mantle has resided in Butte since the early days of the camp. He was the leading spirit in founding the Butte Intermountain, which newspaper he practically owned and controlled until 1900. He is a man of independent means, and an enterprising citizen of his home town. He is recorded as having repeatedly been chairman of the Montana ter-ritorial and also the State Republican committee. As early as 1884 he was a delegate to the Chicago convention which nominated Blaine. He was at that time shoulder to shoulder with Theodore Roosevelt in supporting George F. Ed-munds for the Presidency.

When Montana became a State Mantle When Montana became a State Mantie became a candidate for the Senate. The first election he was unsuccessful. In 1893 he was again a candidate and finally secured his party caucus nomination over Wilbur F. Sanders, then a candidate and make a demonstration because of the successful but the Logis. date to succeed himself, but the Legislature was Democratic. The Democratic majority did not avail because of the party split incident to the old-time and bitter contest between Marcus Daly and W. A. Clark. The Legislature having adjourned without electing a Senator, the governor, a Republican, appointed Mantle to succeed Sanders.

Appointed Senator by Governor.

This brought forth the Senate election case of Lee Mantle. His right to a seat under the appointment led to a protracted debate, the Senate finally deciding adversely to the appointee, thus in the piano.

This left Montana with only one Senator from 1892 until February, 1895, when Mr. Mantle was elected by the Legislature to fill the vacancy. His term expired March 3, 1899.

In the meantime the memorable Bryan-

McKinley campaign had been fought and Mantle had become the chairman of the Silver-Republican compaints. of the Silver-Republican committee of Montana. Notwithstanding he had joined the Bryan forces, he was not regarded as a Democrat and in consequence failed to secure the necessary votes to re-elect him, W. A. Clark being the successful candidate

Thenceforward Mr. Mantle co-operated with the Republican party, of which he Is at present chairman of the State committee. He is remembered in the Senate as an affable, self-contained, and industrious Senator. His speech in fa-vor of an arrangement of the wool schedules favorable to the wool-growers was his chief effort in debate, and its perusal shows that Mr. Mantle is a very close, logical thinker.

Dixon a North Carolinian.

Joseph M. Dixon is a native of North Carolina, who reached Montana in the early nineties. He is a lawyer by profession, and has been very successful at the bar. He is thirty-nine years old and is serving his second term in the House of Representatives. Dixon is a good campaigner and a very popular young man. Like Mantle, he joined the Bryan forces in 1896, feeling that the interests of the State would be best served by the election of the Nebraskan to the Presidency. In 1900 he reunited with the main body of the Republican party and has since been recognized as an ardent Mantle and Dixon are both astute and capable political manipulators, and if the Republicans carry Montana, which, according to reports, they are likely to do, the contest between these two gentlemen will be quite interesting.

Legislature Now Republican.

At the present time the State Legislature is Republican by a majority of fifty on joint ballot. A new Legislature will be elected this fall. It is expected to go Republican. Eleven members of the senate will be hold overs. Of these eight are Republicans and three Demo-crats. Of the sixteen State senators to be elected thirteen will come from districts which went Republican at the last election. Fifty-four of the present members of the lower house are Republicans, twelve were elected on the Independent ticket, and seven are Demo-

Montana Republicans now in Washington predict a complete victory for their party in the State this fall.

He'll wend his most erratic way and then "wend" back again, and it's a cinch that when he's been in heaven half a year
He'll gather up his traps and say: "I'm tired of living here."
